represents either a slogan or a trade name but not both. The competitor must decide which is required.

Remember that in The Bulletin Advertiser's Puzzle Contest, there is no entry fee. There is nothing to buy and nothing to sell. Just a heap of fun for every member of the family.

The puzzles are simple—in fact we even give you the answers. Now—just a minute—don't think we are trying to solve your puzzles for you, but we do give you the answers.

On the night that the first puzzle appears, The Bulletin also will publish a page containing several and advertising slogans and the answers to the puzzles will be contained somewhere in that list.

DROVE CAR HOME

Last year Allan McCullough, young Edmonton pharmacist, was first prize winner in the first contest. He drove home in a brand new car and said that he had enjoyed every minute spent in solving the delightful puzzle puzzles.

Fifty-three other persons in central and northern Alberta also won prizes last year, many of them worth more than $100.

This year there is a bigger prize list and more interesting prizes. Edmonton merchants have come forward wholeheartedly to supply awards for this competition and here are some of the major awards: A six-piece breakfast suit, General Electric radio, bus trips to Vancouver, Winnipeg, Saskatoon and Calgary, three-piece chest of drawers, 26 pieces of Regency Silver plate, challenge first watch.

Other prizes include a Univex movie camera, man's suit, man's overcoat, lady's evening dress, lady's tailored suit, lady's fur-trimmed coat, lady's Dejea afternoon dress, Zeiss microscope, permanent wave, electric washing machine, Hudson's Bay blankets, 12 pairs of ladies silk hose, 12 men's shirts and scores of others.

ILLUSTRATIONS GIVEN

Accompanying this story are pictures illustrating the types of puzzles and the way in which they are to be solved.

Answers to the puzzles are known to only one man in The Bulletin office and he will keep them in a tight-locked secret until the judging. The artist who drew the puzzle pictures was not allowed in on the secret. He made his drawings from minute illustrations to detail without any knowledge as to what they represented.

New for a full understanding about this contest. There are no tricks or riddles. Simply fill in the puzzle each day, send your solution to it, and when you have solved the puzzle, send in the six clipped drawings or facsimiles as your entry for one of the scores of wonderful prizes.

Get into the spirit of the game—make it a hobby. Those who don't will shortly find themselves out of things. Mother, dad, junior and sister, granddaddy and grand-mother, will soon be gathered about the puzzle in the evenings. The game will boost the knitting out of afternoon tea. Lunches and bridge parties will be making it the main entertainment.

Businessmen's meetings, coffee clubs will forget politics and sport when members draw pictures and pencils from their pockets and go to work with them. When the last drop of tea is drained from your Aunt's thermos bottle and his empty lunch kit is locked up, he will be sending the last drawing of his lunch hour comparing notes with fellow workers who also will be solving the puzzle.

Everybody can enter and everybody is eligible for the prizes, except Bulletin employees and their families.

Watch for the first puzzle and be ready to start. The contest rules will appear with the first drawing. They will be simple and clear. Go in and win—and good luck to you.

Hungarian demands for annexation of portions of Czechoslovakia, it became apparent that if Czechoslovakia rejects Hitler's demands and war comes, Czechoslovakia might be attacked simultaneously from three sides by German, Polish and Hungarian armies. Hitler feels Britain and France would undoubtedly refuse to fight to prevent the dismemberment of Czechoslovakia and that they've swept aside every consideration in order to save Europe from a possible war.

Hitler held the whip hand over Europe in the greatest triumph of his career. It is reported he saw only remote possibility of a brief Czech stand against his war machine and did not anticipate any other nation would aid the Czechs.

Britain and France Notify Czechs

Answer to Hitler Demands Unsatisfactory

By RALPH HEINZEN

British United Press; Exclusive Cable to Edmonton Bulletin PARIS, Sept. 21.—Britain and France early today notified Czechoslovakia her answer to Hitler's ultimatum is unsatisfactory and Prague must deliver "an unconditional acceptance" within 24 hours or bear the consequences of an invasion, it was learned authoritatively. Britain and France reportedly have warned Prague that Hitler has "issued marching orders" effective late Thursday unless the Czechoslovakian government surrenders to his demands.

Concerning Hitler's reported marching orders, Ward Price of the Daily Mail said last night in a radio broadcast to the United States that Hitler would "most assuredly march into Czechoslovakia by the end of this month unless his demands are complied with."

Britain and France reportedly have informed Benes and the Czech cabinet that Prague's unconditional surrender must be obtained before Chamberlain's Hitler talks today.

Free Corps Rushed To Battle Lines

British United Press; Exclusive Cable to Edmonton Bulletin SEINENBERG, German-Czech Frontier, Sept. 24.—Thousands of green-shirted soldiers of Sudeten Free Corps were rushed into battle lines along the frontier early today when it was announced that Czech troops were preparing to attack with tanks and artillery.

The German announcement said "a new attack on this little frontier town is anticipated, perhaps before dawn, and the consequences of such an attack will be incalculable."

Czechoslovakia Asks For Hague Court

By ELEANOR PACKARD

British United Press; Exclusive Cable to Edmonton Bulletin PRAGUE, Sept. 21.—The government-controlled Czech news agency announced that Czechoslovakia tonight announced German ultimatum for an outright surrender of the Sudeten border areas with "a demand" that Britain and France "reconsider their proposals." Informed sources said Prague asked Britain and France to carry Hitler's ultimatum before the Hague court or other arbitrator.

participate in conference with representatives of the French and Czechoslovak war departments in order to discuss measures appropriate to the moment.

Independently of this, we consider it desirable that the question be raised at the League of Nations if only as yet under article XI, with the object of first mobilizing public opinion and secondly of ascertaining the position of other nations from whom aid might be expected.

Russian Stand Framed

He said this Russian stand was framed and sent to the Czechoslovak government two days ago and to France a few days before the league assembly met Sept. 12.

Litvinoff said that at that time his government advised:

"We intend to fulfill our engagements under our treaty with Czechoslovakia and together with France to give assistance to Czechoslovakia by means open to us."

The Soviet representative said it was not Moscow's fault if no effect had been given to its proposals.

"Unfortunately," he declared, "other steps were taken which have led and which could not but lead to the present situation."

He said that in the spirit of the Briand-Kriling pact:

"To grant bonuses for sabre rattling and rearmament to arms for the solution of international problems, in other words to reward and encourage super-imperialism, is not to us in the spirit of the Briand-Kriling pact."

Litvinoff said his government was not taking no part in such a policy.

Bitter Indictment

Litvinoff started his address with a bitter indictment of what the League had failed to do for China, Ethiopia and Spain and declared it was "the criminal fault" of the heads of member states.

He declared the "League of Nations is still strong enough to stop aggression by collective action and expressed a belief that it would stop Hitler if he attempted to seize Czechoslovakia by force."

Collective Measures

Litvinoff discussed immediately after German absorption of Austria the Moscow government had approached other European great powers "with a proposal for immediate collective deliberation on the possible consequences of the event."

Moscow, he said, had desired to adopt collective measures.

He said to Russia's regret: "This proposal" did not receive the just appreciation and aid it had been carried out it might have saved the world from alarm over the fate of Czechoslovakia."

NIPPON PLANS UPBUILDING OF NEW SHANGHAI

British and Americans Worried Over Changes In Trading Area

By ROBERT BELLAIRE

SHANGHAI, Sept. 21.—Worried British and American officials of Shanghai's international settlement are fresh indications that Japan plans to build a "new Shanghai" at the conference of the Whangpoo and Yangtze rivers, designed to supplant the present Shanghai trading and commercial area.

They say the pro-Japanese government in Nanking, which administers the non-foreign areas of Shanghai, is launching an ambitious city planning project designed to create a new competing city north of Shanghai and to include Wusong and the Kiangsu river estuary area, development of which was started by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek before he was expelled from the Shanghai area by the Japanese last summer.

Tentative maps of the new city already have been prepared, it is said, including roads, wharves and parks.

The Nanking regime is issuing regulations for the reorganization of land and has announced that all work of property within the corporate limits of the proposed new city must report at once "to be authorized" to proceed.

DEFENCE SECTOR

Boundaries of the proposed new city have not been released but it is believed the area will include parts of the present Japanese concession and the adjacent area.

The plans call for making Wusong into a modern deep-water port which would make it unnecessary for large ships to make the run of the Yangtze to Shanghai.

In this connection, city planning authorities say the Japanese have not permitted dredging of the Whangpoo ship channel for nearly a year and attributed this to their desire to divert all possible cargo to Wusong.

A Lovely Head of Hair Calls For Good Health

Raising A Family

Where there are three or four children in the family, the arrival of one more baby is accepted by most of the children very nicely. Even the little one who never entirely dropped, because he knows what it is to be a child, affecting to act as though he were only a baby. He is probably an angel when he lives in the home where he is loved and cherished by his mother and his brothers or sisters, and he can keep up his part.

But it is a different story when a brand new baby comes to stay in a home where the two-year-old three-year-old has been king. Jealousy may be as much as the child's mind and heart that he will remain to color his conduct all his days.

After all, it is pretty heart-breaking business to be supplanted by a stranger when you're only big enough to fit in a cradle without being moved out with real efficiency when you want to use your lungs, and sent on errands up and down, all for someone who might just as well have stepped in off the street for all you care—rather a jell.

And to have daddy come in with a new baby, and jump up and down three steps at a time, to make a big fuss over mother and that creature in the cradle, is incredible. Only a week or two ago he was a baby, and now he is a big boy, and you were the finest thing living. He called you "Mama" and stood up when you were talking to him, and you to be on one. Now he tries as hard as anyone to get out of the way. Why, when he was a baby, you were the finest thing living. He called you "Mama" and stood up when you were talking to him, and you to be on one. Now he tries as hard as anyone to get out of the way.

The woman who finds that her hair truly lovely hair—the kind which lends itself admirably to the new wave—often—ought to appreciate the fact that the condition of one's hair is only as good as the rest of her body. Her hair is just as much a part of her health, as well as a great deal of her beauty and mental state, are not conducive to beautifully shiny, flowing locks.

If you doubt this, ask anyone who ever has had a serious illness in just what condition the hair is just after the illness. Or try to recall the condition of your own hair looked immediately following the month of grief or worry. Or talk to your favorite hairdresser. He will agree that the general state of one's health always is reflected in the condition of her hair.

It is an excellent idea, then, for the woman who is anxious to keep her hair as well as her complexion as well as your health to have an examination by your family doctor fairly regularly. If you have been feeling positively lousy for months, by all means see him. In addition, be sure that your diet includes many of the mineral-rich foods which makes for hair beauty.

For instance, you should know that iron, copper, zinc, calcium, iodine and cod liver oil are rich in iodine which is important to hair health. Also, eat plenty of apples, strawberries, horseradish, whole wheat, asparagus, cauliflower, and other vegetables. To food experts, contain quantities of silicon, also hair beauty. And horseradish, cabbage, radishes, apples, turnips and onions contain silicon as well as your health.

And to have daddy come in with a new baby, and jump up and down three steps at a time, to make a big fuss over mother and that creature in the cradle, is incredible. DESIGN No. 641—ZINNIA'S IN A GARDEN, EMBROIDERED REDHEAD

Dear Reader: Your letters telling us so many nice things about our department put us all in a good mood this morning, and so we have designed this lovely spread to show you how helpful you are. It represents both the vivid zinnias growing against a garden trellis. You may work all the flowers in one color or varying shades or you may select many colors. Note the clever flower petals made of straight stitches and a single row of outline. It is surprisingly quick and simple to construct.

The pattern includes transfers of the design for centre of the spread, corners and border, stitch and color guides and boys, materials required and diagrams of stitches.

Send 15 cents in coin for this pattern to The Edmonton Bulletin, Needlework Dept., Edmonton, Alberta.

ATTENTION! CAUTION! To avoid breaking the rubber motor of your planes with a possibility of damage to the fuselage stretch the rubber first as follows:

The model should be held by an assistant with the ball and thumb and finger of the right hand so the thumb and finger extend slightly along the fuselage, and the left hand placed against the nose of the model so that the rubber motor passes between the index finger and the second finger. Now stretch the rubber to three times its length and wind it around a quarter of the number of turns specified on the plans at the same time advancing slowly towards the model. Allow the motor to unwind while still attached to the winder. Repeat this operation once and then stretch the motor to four times its length winding half the specified number of turns while advancing towards the motor. Allow the motor to unwind again. Repeat this operation once. Now stretch the rubber to five times its length and wind to three quarters of the specified number of turns, but do not advance towards the model until half the turns have been applied. Allow the motor to unwind again and then apply the full number of turns to the motor but do not advance towards the model until half the number of turns have been applied.

On September 6th and 7th I printed an official notice. You are regretting a few that are most important, read them carefully, to avoid any misunderstanding.

2—Models must be made from the Official Jimmy Allen Kit and standard parts in accordance with the Official Plans and must be made by the Contest Manager, Phil Davis, who will assure himself that the plane weighs at least one and a half ounces.

14—All prizes and awards will be made on the basis of duration of flight only.

16—Any contestant who breaks any rule of a contest or whose conduct is unbecoming in Jimmy Allen Cadet may, upon recommendation of the officials, be disqualified.

17—All model planes entered in the Air Races must have the name and address of the builder on the under side of the fuselage between the landing gear and strut.

Curious World —By William Ferguson

Answer: Wrong. A knot is a unit of speed, not of distance, and is equivalent to one nautical mile an hour. Instead of saying that a ship is travelling 10 knots per hour, we should say that it is travelling 10 knots.

Czech Army Tensely Awaiting Outcome Of Sudeten Dispute

One of the most completely mechanized armies in the world, the Czech military machine is proceeding with preparations to defend its border against any invasion by the armed forces of Chancellor Adolf Hitler. In answer to an ultimatum issued by Konrad Henlein, Sudeten German leader, the Czech high command shifted more troops into the troubled areas and instituted other measures to restore order in towns which have been in various stages of rebellion since Chancellor Hitler's Nuremberg address. Noted for its physical fitness, the Czech army consists of 1,600,000 highly trained soldiers. One of the most efficient fighting machines of the Czech army is the cycle corps-infantry on wheels—top left. First objective of enemy bombers attacking vital points in Czechoslovakia would be the giant Skoda munitions works, top centre. This plant is the largest manufacturer of war material in Europe. The Czech air force is considered one of the most efficient in the continent and President Edward Benes is shown, lower, being initiated into the mysteries of a fighting airplane by Major Amoser, one time of the Czech air force. Equipped with fast-moving tanks from the Skoda works the Czechs are reported to be keeping a number of these tanks, lower left, stationed near the German border. Modern guns, large and small, form an important part of any army, and the Czechs are well supplied. A gun crew is shown here, upper right, guiding one of its guns into position near the troubled border.

Some Melon

And it's some melon that William Saylor, Jr., is holding. It tips the scales at 14½ pounds, and was grown on his father's farm in Manheim, Lancaster county, Pa.

Soviets Train Youngsters In Sniping

An important defence measure for a beleaguered town is the use of snipers, which Soviet Russia is going in for in a big way. Pictured above are members of the Society of Air and Chemical Defence at Vladivostok, organized with the purpose of training snipers in their hazardous task. These young men and a woman seem adept at handling the rifles.
